Tony Abbott's first budget is a budget for a cruel and merciless world that will hurt working people — while corporate profits get put first.

This budget will gut Medicare, and slug patients with new fees.

It will force up university fees, hike up student debt, and give subsidies to private, for profit education companies. The poorest students will pay the most, and they will take the longest to pay off their debts.

It will rip billions out of aid, leaving the world's poorest people high and dry.

It will pour tens of billions of dollars into new motorways, investing nothing into public transport.

Pensioners, people on Newstart, single parents, public schools, and public servants have also taken a hit.

The Greens will fight this divisive and brutal budget. We will vote against cuts to public services and support payments — and stand up for public education, health, and transport.
